*Managing director,
Grant Killen, is one of Australia's most experienced protection specialists.*

Grant has forged an exceptional reputation within the family and domestic violence sector, known specifically for his professionalism and empathetic approach to those in crisis situations.

Grant's entire career has revolved around protecting others. From deployments in high-risk environments with the defence force, to conducting protective operations on dignitaries such as the Prime Minister of Australia, and members of the Royal Family. Protecting others is Grant's profession, and he has become dedicated to protecting those who are most vulnerable.

*Operations manager,
Matthew Foots, is one of Australia's most highly regarded technical surveillance experts.*

Matthew has an extremely high level of technical experience across several industry sectors.

Matthew was a member of the Technical Surveillance Unit at Queensland's Crime and Corruption Commission before transferring to the Technical Surveillance Unit within the QPS. As a highly skilled surveillance technician, Matthew was instrumental in gathering intelligence and evidence for a number of high-profile investigations. He has a strong operational policing background and exceptional technical capabilities. His sole focus now is technology-facilitated abuse mitigation.

It is our genuine care factor for vulnerable people that sets us apart.

We understand that each and every victim-survivor and their family is unique.

We are innovative in our approach, whilst extremely careful and considered. We understand the significance of the decisions we make, and the actions we take.

When we say we'll be there; we will. When we ask you to trust us, you can.

We are 100% client-focused. Our goal is to create safety and security, so victim-survivors can begin to live a life of normality.

“The greatest responsibility of a leader is to give the people in your span of care a grounded sense of hope for the future”

THE PROCESS

We work closely with domestic violence support services to fully understand the situation. We meet with the victim-survivor to discuss strategies to keep them safe.

All work is coordinated hand in hand with the victim-survivor. They need to be a part of the plan, and have control and input on the strategy, from installing security upgrades through to safety planning and response.

CONCENTRIC
CONCEPTS

THE PROCESS

Ultimately, our goal is to assist the victim-survivor to feel in control, and understand that we are there for them throughout this process.

Many victim-survivors have felt powerless or controlled by someone else for some time, this is a very important element in their journey to take back control of their life.

THE PROCESS

Once we have all the relevant information, the process can commence.

We carry out vulnerability assessments, and conduct safety planning with the family in the home, school and/or work environments. We also carry out sweeps for hidden cameras, listening devices and tracking devices.

All recommendations are made and provided to the supporting DV service for consultation and approval.

Our role is to tailor solutions that focus on the safety of victim-survivors, and if required, remove them from complex or dangerous situations.

CONCENTRIC
CONCEPTS

We do this with an unprecedented level of care. Our number one focus is our client, and managing their overall safety and security effectively.

We are flexible in our approach, making sure that every detail of our plan is practical for both us, and the victim-survivor.

We coordinate and execute meticulously planned operations, both in collaboration with domestic violence support services, and directly with clients.

CONCENTRIC
CONCEPTS

We have the resources and ability to provide security and vulnerability assessments, extractions, transportation, duress devices, security infrastructure upgrades and a range of other services and solutions to anyone in need of protection or safety assistance.

"Grant has a deep and extensive knowledge of the dynamics of domestic violence, coercive control and the range of surveillance tactics often used to perpetrate harm against women and children."

"Grant has been instrumental in providing comprehensive personal and home safety assessments for women who feared for their safety, after experiencing intimate partner violence in their homes.

These assessments have been expertly and sensitively undertaken, advice and appropriate interventions have been provided and innovative equipment has been delivered to women when essential."

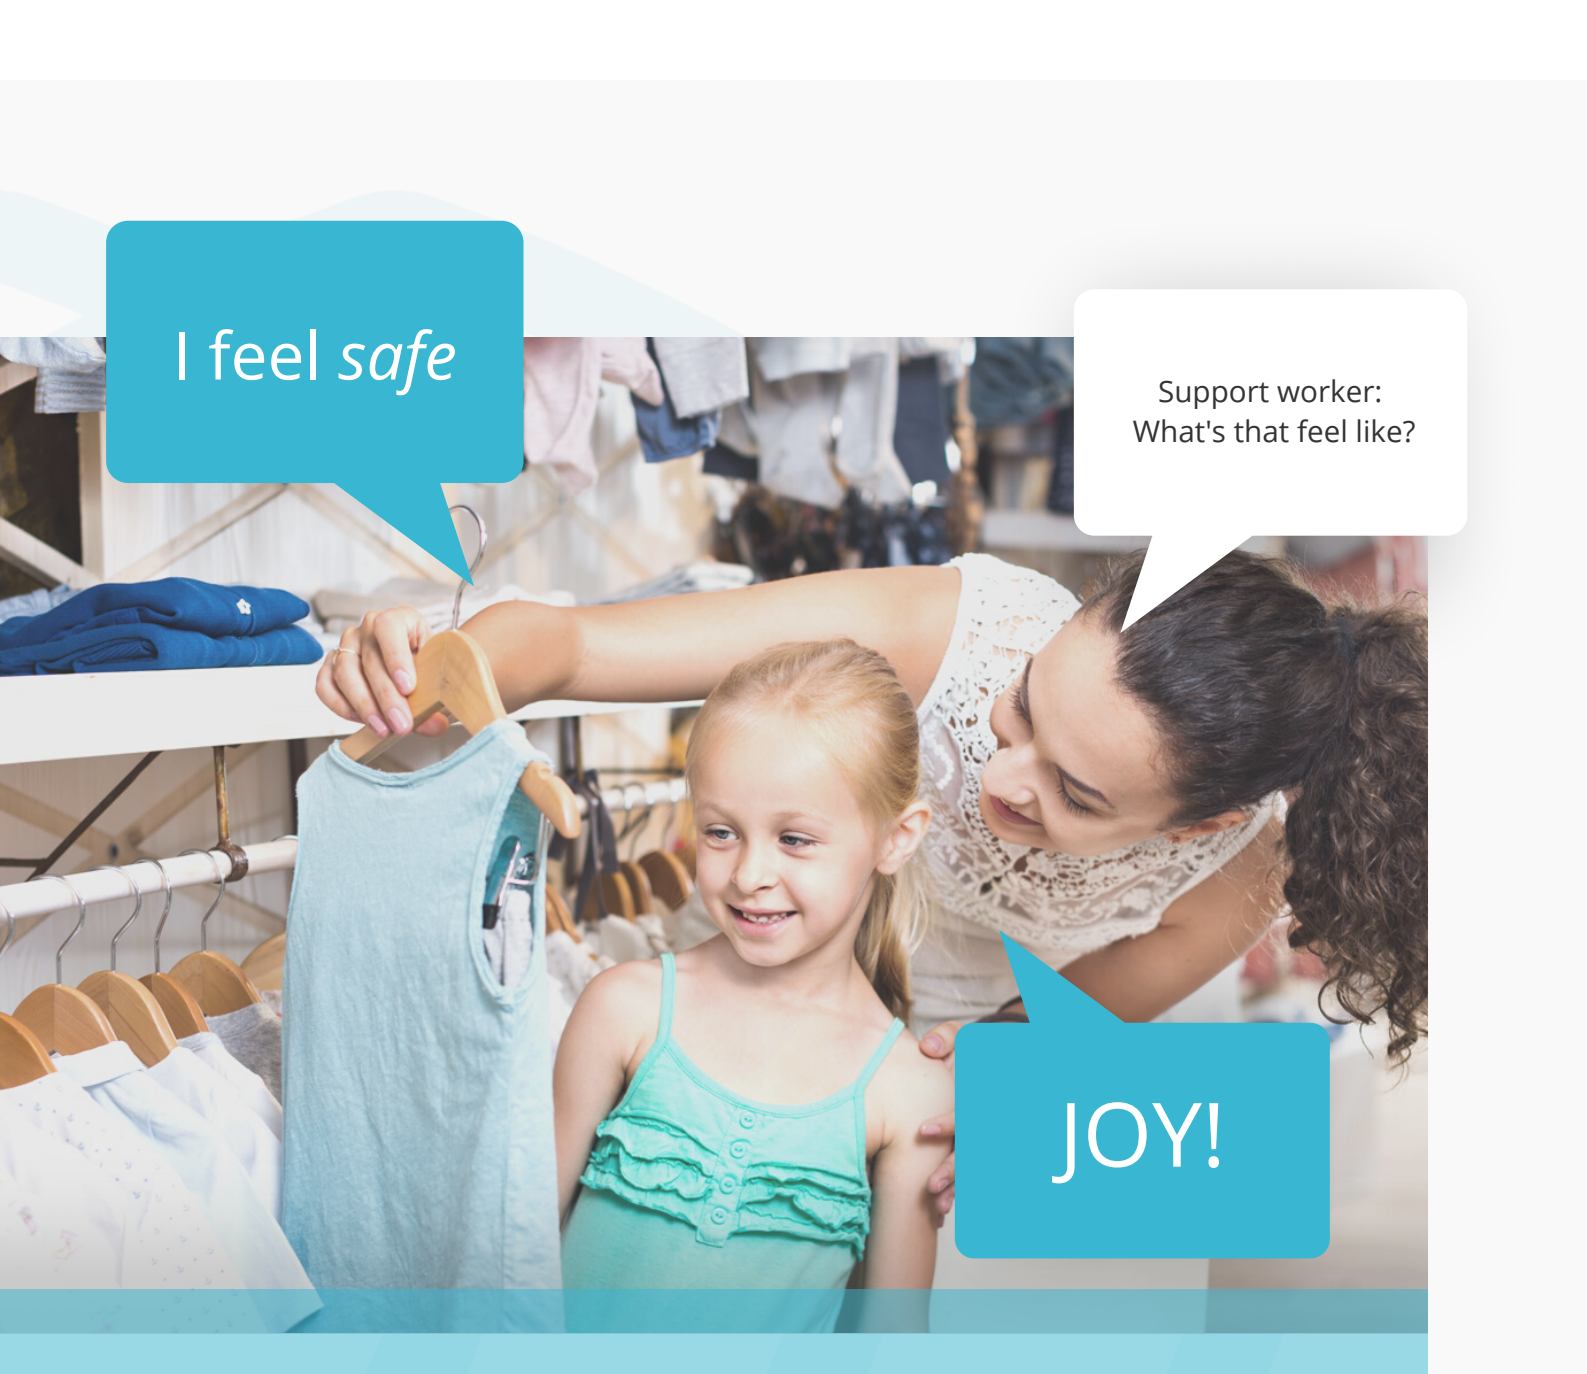

"Grant's services enable people we support to more safely participate in daily life with less fear of being unsafe in their homes or tracked in the community.

BDVS have, and will continue to, work alongside Grant into the future due to his ability to prioritise, understand, and respond to both our service and people we support's needs."
